The Timelist Project — Feature Documentary Announced with Relevé Entertainment and Merge TV

Lancaster, CA — Timelist Group, Inc., the 501(c)(3) reentry nonprofit founded by Yusef Andre Wiley, today announced "The Timelist Project," an in-development feature documentary produced with Relevé Entertainment (Dr. Holly Carter) and Merge TV.

Yusef Andre Wiley founded Timelist Group, Inc. in 2007 as a peer-led initiative inside CDCR. Today he leads a portfolio that includes 9 LA County housing sites carrying a $63,000-per-month utility burden, the CalAIM Justice-Involved service line, and a transitional-workforce model built around the people it serves. He is the author of If I Knew Then and What I Know Now.

In 2026 the organization crossed $10M in annual operating budget and 100 team members, scaling housing capacity from 86 to 171+ reentry beds across LA County — including new women's sites — and launching Transpire 2.0, ChiefDesk, and RoamSmart as adjacent ventures that deepen the reentry infrastructure.

The Timelist Project, an in-development feature documentary produced with Dr. Holly Carter of Relevé Entertainment and partners Timelist Group, Relevé Entertainment, and Merge TV, follows Wiley's four-act arc — The Beginning, The Turning Point, The Building, The Legacy — and frames the documentary's posture less as a campaign story than as a working answer to one civic question: what does durable second-chance infrastructure look like.

"This film exists to make the operating reality visible," said Yusef Andre Wiley, Founder & Executive Director, Timelist Group, Inc. "We are not lobbying for second chances — we are building the infrastructure that makes them durable, and the documentary is the working record of what that looks like in practice."

About Timelist Group

About Timelist Group — Timelist Group, Inc. is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit headquartered in Lancaster, California, serving individuals, families, and communities impacted by the criminal justice system and barriers to employment. Founded in 2007 as a peer-led initiative inside CDCR and operating as a 501(c)(3) since 2013, the organization scales reentry housing (171+ beds across 9 LA County sites), delivers California's CalAIM Justice-Involved service line, and runs a transitional-workforce model built around the people it serves.

About Relevé Entertainment

About Relevé Entertainment — Relevé Entertainment is a production company founded by Dr. Holly Carter, the Emmy-winning producer behind Lifetime's "This Is Life with Lisa Ling." Relevé develops and produces feature documentaries and long-form series rooted in lived experience, civic infrastructure, and the people who build both. The Timelist Project marks Relevé's continuing partnership with Merge TV on documentary work in the justice-impact space.
